1. A considerable part of the 1934 class was called up for duty from about 27 March to 10 April 1954. The conscripts are reported to have been mainly divided up among the armored troops, certain artillery units, signal troops, and air force. The main part of the 1934 class has not, however, been conscripted, but it is believed that they will be called in the fall of 1954.
2. The 1934 class is reported to be larger than some of the earlier classes. The authorities, therefore, avoided, at least temporarily, the practice of drafting recruits with various physical defects.
